

Leading Action Learning

A 6-day workshop

Background

Action Learning is a participant directed and team based process in which teachers can reflect on their experience and expertise and form partnerships with others in order to act on real school-based problems, issues, challenges, opportunities or initiatives.

In this course you will...

- Introduced to key ideas underpinning an action learning approach to professional learning.
- Provided with frameworks and tools for sharing knowledge, expertise and ideas to build trust and respect and encourage innovation.
- Conducting your own action learning project and reflecting on what worked and why... what didn't and why.... Ideally your action learning project will be related to your leadership of a group action learning project (research circle).

On completion of the course you can...

- Apply to become an ANSN accredited facilitator in Action Learning. You will then be able to lead research circles on behalf of the ANSN.

Training Course

Typically offered as three 2-day workshops but this can be arranged differently to suit a group.
